

Just a Little of This & That By W. E. W.

Don't Do It
You men in the forties who don't been back to your old home town in twenty or thirty-five years, and are planning on going back for the first time since you were in the neighborhood of eighteen or twenty—to you in all seriousness, don't change your plans and just somewhere else.

telling you this because I
just passed through the experience, and the horrors of it as described it would make a weep.

A man in this state is rated not only financially but in ranks among the foremost
men. He is an honest-to-goodness man and a success
at every point of view.

During the past few years he has been building a wonderful home and in his leisure hours has dreamed dreams. In his home he went back to his young-hood. He remembered the days he spent on his uncle's farm
as a youth; he remembered
school days in the little town
where he lived; he thought of the times he had and how he went to the home of a man that boy's mother gave him a slice of home-made bread which was thickly spread with home-made butter. Evening evening as he sat alone in his study his thoughts constantly wandered back to the old home
and as the days passed and about his daily routine, the appearance of an east-
passenger train made him
think for the old home town,
and the fact that his partner no more in that town
of a few old-time boyhood resided there. But there was a woman there he wanted to see.

In his puppy-love days
he was the best girl
he walked and as the years passed and he dreamed of her
as the one perfect woman
in the face of the earth.
The desire to make the old home town his own grip and in the course of time arrived. Although he telegraphed a boyhood that he would arrive on a train on a stated day,
there was no one to meet him.
He registered at the best hotel
old home town, but he was strangers. During the first he sat in the lobby hoping to meet someone that he knew. But the evening passed and he went to bed, disappointed in a few hours spent there.
Morning came, and he decided to go about the old home town to do his good. He met and talked with one or two men and telling them who he was he evidently remembered him
as a rattle-headed boy, and he evidently believed he had come from a fool at twenty to a capable businessman in the thirties.

After wandering about the town
and making a boyhood chum
had a wonderful chat of the days, but the enjoyable chat
he developed into a request for a job, as this boyhood chum was in fact, he always had broke. What looked like the
of the dream he had dreamed his leisure hours at home,
he dull and drab, and he became to wish he had stayed at home.

Next decided on a drive
to the town and country where he wandered in his early years.
He swammin' hole, the river
from which he fished, the
of the village, the country were there—but they were not. The town had lost in vation and had gone backward and forward, and it appeared that the citizens of that town lacked initiative and given up hope of making the
any better or any larger.
After two or three days he decided to look up the girl he admired in his puppy-love days. In sights at home he had seen a beautiful mother, president of a home with excellent reputations. He had seen her successful wife admired by husband and loved by her children, and looked up to by the community.
Finding her husband's name, he went in the telephone directory, was unable to find it. Finally he inquired for her husband's of business and, locating it,
he found a dilapidated, ramshackle party tea and coffee store with pecked windows. The husband was a little, dried-up fellow with a squeaky voice, and after

POPPY DAY SALE PLAN ARRANGED

The little red poppy, so full of meaning, representing the sacrificial blood of the boys who fell, has unfortunately become the cause of much strife and misunderstanding. It was to protect this flower from strife and the inroads of commercialism that the Convention Poppy Committee of the Legion Auxiliary worked out a national poppy program at the National Convention held in St. Paul in September, 1924.

This program was adopted by the convention and eliminates the commercial poppy from the sales supply of the Auxiliary, and only poppies made by the needy and disabled service men and women and by the Unit members are to be sold by the Auxiliary this year, except in the department where the Legion has charge of the poppy sales. The Auxiliary program interferes in no way with the Legion programs.

Poppies have been made by the disabled service men in the hospitals of Arkansas, California, Idaho, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, Oregon and Virginia for local needs, under the guidance of the Legion Auxiliary, and Kansas, Minnesota and Wisconsin departments have had poppies made for all the states not carrying on this industry.

SIMONDS TO BUILD MODEL HOME HERE

Joe Simonds of the Simonds
Brick Company, who recently purchased a grove of the Anderson Bros. at Seventeenth and San Antonio, announced yesterday that he will erect a model home on his new property.

The Simonds Brick Company is manufacturing what is known as brick tile and the new Simonds home is to be built of that on plans originated by Mr. Simonds for an ideal Southern California
home.

Introductions were over, the husband asked him out to the home.
It was almost with fear and trembling that this business man accepted the invitation, for it seemed that he had travelled across the continent only to have his dreams of years dashed to pieces.

When he finally found the home
of the woman whom he had dreamed as being the finest woman that ever God put upon this fair earth,
her appearance was such a shock
that it took him several moments to regain his composure. Those ruby lips of earlier years, those pearly teeth that he admired in his youth, had been changed to bloodless, tight-drawn lips about an ill-fitting set of false teeth. The queen of his dreams had grown fat, forty and sloppy, while the entire home surroundings was as different from what he expected to find as anyone could possibly imagine.

After listening to this man describe his experiences and knowing that the experience took a lot of the joy out of his life, I say to you men who have planned
such a trip, and I say it in all seriousness—stay home and dream
on.

CRUELTY CHARGED IN BARR DIVORCE

Mrs. Margaret Barr filed suit
Tuesday in the Superior Court at San Bernardino for divorce from her husband, Allan S. Barr. She charges cruelty.

On April 2nd, 1924, Allan S.
Barr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas.
V. Barr, and Miss Margaret Reynolds were married at Lynchburg, Virginia. Following the wedding,
Mr. and Mrs. Barr spent their honeymoon in the east, and on arrival here a reception for the bride and groom was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. V.
Barr.

The acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Barr dates back to the Chautauqua which was held here
under the auspices of the American Legion four years ago. Mrs.
Barr at that time being a member of one of the musical companies which appeared on the Chautauqua program. Mr. Barr was a member of the American Legion committee in charge of putting on the Chautauqua.

The filing of the suit for divorce came as a shock to residents of the city, as both Mr. and Mrs. Barr have many friends here. Mrs.
Barr, who has a charming personality and an unusual soprano voice, was until recently director of the Presbyterian choir.

Mrs. Barr and her aunt, Miss Annie Lee Reynolds, left Upland for Asheville, North Carolina, on Tuesday, via the Santa Fe.

TO PRESENT CUPS TO WINNERS AT RED HILL CLUB

TOURNAMENT WINNERS
TO BE HONORED
TONIGHT

Beecher F. Hungerford, Dr. W.
H. Craig, Jr., and Orton P.
Brady to Be Honored Ones
at Red Hill Club

Not only will a lot of folks go to Red Hill Country Clubhouse tonight to enjoy the regular dancing party, but a lot of folks will go simply because they love the game of golf and admire men who can play the game in a professional-like manner.

President Paul M. Nichols will tonight present to the winners the cups they won in the President's Cup tournament when Beecher F.
Hungerford defeated a field of 32 players who qualified for the tournament. Mr. Hungerford will receive the President's Cup as winner of the 1925 tournament.

Dr. W. H. Craig, Jr., who was defeated by Hungerford in a 36-hole closely contested match and rated as one of the foremost matchers ever played on the Red Hill course by members of the club, will receive the Vice-President's Cup.

Orton P. Brady, winner of the cup in the tournament played by the defeated 16 of the 32 who qualified, will be presented with the cup tonight by President Nichols. Following the presentation of the cups a Grand March with the winners and their ladies leading,
followed by the 29 who qualified,
with their ladies, will be staged.
Members and their guests will complete the Grand March, which promises to be a most interesting feature of the evening's program.

Eckstein Trophy Tournament.
Before leaving for the east H.
G. Eckstein presented a beautiful trophy cup to the club, and the Greens Committee, of which O. P.
Brady is chairman, has lined up
the following plan for which members of the club will play for the cup.

General Rules
This tournament will be played
each year until a member of Red Hill has won the cup three times, when it becomes his property. The name of the winner will be engraved each year on the cup. Except for this year (1925) the tournament will be played during January or February.

1925 Rules
Qualifying round will be played Saturday, May 30th, to Tuesday, June 2nd. The 16 low net, using the handicaps now posted, qualify for the tournament. In case of ties for 16th place, the player having the lowest gross score will be selected.

Players must declare their intention to qualify before starting play and must play in a twosome or foursome. Cards must be signed by the player and witnessed by the partner or opponent. Failure to turn in a score card disqualifies the player.

All scores must be in by the evening of June 2nd.

Dates of Play
First Bracket—Saturday, June
6th, 1 p. m.
Second Bracket—Sunday, June
7th, 1 p. m.
Third Bracket—Saturday, June
13th, 1 p. m.
Finals—Sunday, June 14th, 9
a. m., 36 holes.

Saturday's games may be played any time from Wednesday to Saturday, inclusive, to suit the convenience of the players.

Sunday's games may be played any time from Sunday to Wednesday, inclusive, to suit the convenience of the players, except that the finals must be played on June 14th.

Rules
The American Golf Association
Rules and the Local Rules govern all play. Questions of rules or disputes will be referred to the Greens Committee for decision.

All games match play except the qualifying round.
In case neither player shows up on the tee, both default and the next bracket is a bye.

NEW OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN IN UPLAND

Dr. M. C. Oswald of Jackson, Mississippi, is a recent arrival here, and will be associated with Dr. Alice P. Smith in osteopathic practice. Dr. Oswald comes here directly from San Bernardino, and her husband, Mr. H. C. Oswald and children will follow in a few weeks. She is a graduate of the American School of Osteopathy, Kirkville, Mo., and has made a specialty of children's diseases.

UPLAND LIONS WIN CONVENTION CUP

Members of the Upland Lions Club are returning today from the district convention following a most interesting program held at San Diego.

Last night the Governor's banquet and ball was held and today the convention closes with a golf tournament on the golf courses of San Diego and La Jolla.
The local club was somewhat surprised to win a trophy cup offered by the Lions' Club of Santa Ana for the club having the highest percentage attendance at the district convention. Nineteen members attended out of the 27 belonging to the Upland Club and, figured with the distance that the men travelled, gave the cup to Upland.

Jack Reilly, who was the main factor in organizing a club here,
was elected district governor in spite of the fact that big city clubs voted for his opponent.

WELDON JUDGE AT CHERRY FESTIVAL

Prof. George P. Weldon of Chaffey faculty will be one of the judges of the exhibits of cherries shown in the new storage plant at Beaumont during the Cherry Festival which will be held this year on Saturday and Sunday, May 30 and 31.

Growers will compete for cups and prizes, and judging by the splendid specimens, it will be difficult to decide whose fruit is the best.

In the afternoon on Saturday there will be a band concert and vaudeville stunts on the streets, arranged by a competent committee, and at 7 o'clock there will be a street dance. Later hall dances will be given at the Woman's Club house and in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Joe Romero, the barbecue
king, will be in charge of the barbecue dinner on Sunday,
served in the Leslie grove
south of the Cherry Valley school. There will be band music and a social time planned for everyone.

Information booths for visitors will be placed at convenient corners, and guides will be supplied to show people over the famous cherry-growing district.

Many people from Upland are arranging to go on one of the two days, and several motor parties are being planned.

MAY FETE AT CHAFFEY

A colorful and gracefully moving pageant took place Tuesday afternoon on Chaffey lawn when the Fourth Annual May Fete took place under the auspices of the Girls' League.

All the characters of Mother Goose came to life and in costume, dance and pantomime enacted their parts in a very creditable manner. The day was ideal and the natural setting of shrubbery and trees made just the right background for the brightly colored costumes. About 130 girls took part in the Fete, an interesting feature of which was the fact that all the costumes used were made by the girls themselves or by the sewing classes.

The program opened with a pretty ceremony—installing the newly-elected officers of the Girls' League. Then followed the pageant proper, the characters appearing singly, in pairs or in groups, each carrying out their part in the program until the semi-circle was complete. The closing feature was the always beautiful ceremony of winding the may-pole.

The affair was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience
and was under the management of Miss Dorothy Williams, Ontario,
the dances being directed by Miss Mina Gordon of the Chaffey faculty. Miss Harriet Hiller designed the costumes and Miss Dorothy Hill was pianist. Other Upland girls assisting on the various committees were Katherine Harwood, property committee; Dorothy Holiday, Clair Johnston and Dorothy Hill, flower committee; Elizabeth Hawkins, locality, and Marian Brownless, program.

Willows—Special train consisting of 65 cars, carrying 9,750
pounds, shipped from Garnett ranch
to Chicago market; estimated value $100,000.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CHAFFEY GIRLS' WORK ASSN.

MRS. WILLIAM LAIDLAW
PRESIDES AS CHAIRMAN

Miss Janet Stone, General Secretary, Gives Annual Report and Expresses Appreciation of Support

Over two hundred people interested in the Chaffey Community Girls' Work Organization attended
the annual dinner and meeting held last night in the Chaffey
cafeteria, presided over by Mrs.
William Laidlaw, president of the Woman Board of Directors.

Mrs. Laidlaw, in naming the nominating committee on the election of officers for the coming year, stated very distinctly that she could not possibly be a candidate for the office of president
next year, but when the committee returned and announced their choice of directors they said they were loathe to accept her resignation, and would leave her name up in the hope that she would continue in office. Directors appointed were Mrs. A. C. Reynolds, Mrs.
Harriet Fleming, Mrs. H. M.
Shattuck of Ontario, Mrs. Frank Newell, Mrs. W. B. Gemmill of Mountain View; Mrs. John D.
Howe, Mrs. P. H. McQuillen, Mrs.
George Hall of Upland, Mrs. Hugh Crawford of Alta Loma, Mrs. A. L.
Webber of Cucamonga, Mrs. Flora
Pencil of Fontana, Mrs. Roe, Mrs.
Alice Hippard of Etiwanda.

Miss Janet Stone, general secretary, in giving her report, ac-knowledgeed with gratitude the great benefit received from the cooperation of the Woman's Board, Merton E. Hill, principal of Chaffey, and all the leaders who give voluntary service, and how much
she appreciated the "get-together"
feeling that existed in their relationships.

"The aim of the organization,"
said Miss Stone, "is to co-operate with the home and school in producing well-balanced girls, and the aim for next year will be to even more closely keep in touch with the mothers and schools. There are 750 girls in the organization, 66 leaders and 37 clubs,
and we have to show, beside these girls, all of normal healthy tendencies, fond of school and home,
which is our greatest asset, a girls'
club room at Chaffey, Camp Conifer, where we have genuine camp life for several weeks during the holidays, the girls' cabin in Barrett's Canyon, and the girls' club house in the foothills, our latest achievement."

Merton E. Hill gave a brief talk in which he said that he had noticed a distinct improvement in the last two years, as compared to the previous ten years, in the attitude of the girls towards their civic responsibilities and their citizenship, and heartily endorsed the endeavors of the organization and congratulated the board on what had been accomplished.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Laidlaw for the year ending March, 1925. Total receipts were $1,521.66, and expenditures were $1,308.33, showing a balance of $213.33 on hand April 1st. In May a check for $833.30 was received as the proportion due from the Ontario Community Chest drive, and $10 was sent from the Cuc-amonga Woman's Club. Since September, 1924, Miss Stone's salary of $2,000 has been paid by the High School.

The High School club girls gave an excellent skit in pantomime, showing various activities in club
and scout life, and Miss Stone greatly pleased everyone with some vocal selections.

An impressive ceremony was given by the Chaffey Girls Council demonstrating the laws of the Girl Scouts, Girl Reserves and Campfire Girls, which was led by Elizabeth Boulton, president of the council.

Lex Lucas, director of the Boy
Scouts, was introduced by Mrs.
Laidlaw, and spoke briefly of his work.

The dinner was given by the Woman's Board and ably directed and served under the charge of Miss Lillian Graves, Home Economic teacher at Chaffey.

WORDS OF WISDOM
"Sedentary work," said the college lecturer, "tends to lessen the endurance."
"In other words," butted in the smart student, "the more one sits
the less one can stand."
"Exactly," retorted the lecturer;
"and if one lies a great deal, one's standing is lost completely."— Christian Guardian.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF RABBIT MEN

Members and several guests of the Associated Rabbit Breeders of Southern California enjoyed the fourth annual dinner of the association on Tuesday evening, held in the Chaffey cafeteria. A number of rabbit breeders from the San Fernando Valley were present, and interesting speeches were heard from a number of the heads of the various organizations. J.
M. Davis, President of the Poultrymen's Co-operative Milling Association, was the chief speaker,
and emphasized the value of buying food in co-operative quantities. As this question had been the subject of discussion for some time his remarks were appropriate and helped solve part of the problem.

W. Hannah, president of the association, told of the number of rabbits being reared in this vicinity. An average is 28 young from every breeding doe, and incomplete returns showed that members of the association now have rabbits valued at $60,000. These returns were gained from a questionnaire sent to all members.

Others speaking briefly on the rabbit industry were O. T. Halley, president San Bernardino organization; J. J. Grady, president
Riverside association; Secretary
Curtis of San Bernardino, Secretary W. L. Kiler of Ontario, H.
G. Upham of Covina.

LOCAL BANKERS GO TO COLTON FOR MEETING

Charles V. Barr, Harlow S. Wilson, Allan S. Barr, of the First National Bank, and Harold C.
Moore of the Commercial National Bank, attended the meeting of the San Bernardino County Bankers' Association held on Thursday night at the Anderson Hotel at Colton, at which the principal speaker was J. P. Gaunt, Los Angeles manager of Dillon, Read & Company.

Another speaker on the program was R. W. Watson, assistant cashier and credit manager of the Helman Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles, who remarked that the three C's of credit, character, capacity and capital should always be kept in mind by bankers making loans. He advised his audience against "get quick rich concerns," and declared that the great need today is honesty and integrity in business.

Two hundred members of the association and visitors were present at the meeting.

Opportunity knocks but an engine shouldn't.

Making Work Pay

(Hemet News)

When a man has put his heart into his work, said Emerson, he is relieved and gay, but what he has done otherwise shall give him no peace. It has become traditional of Charles Dickens how he laughed and cried over his novels. After he had finished David Copperfield he wrote a preface that no reader could possibly believe it more than he believed it when he wrote it. This attitude is what did more, possibly, to make the noted Englishman the great writer that he was than any other trait.

Preaching recently on "The Individual and His Work," a well-known minister pointed out that a man not only must put himself in his toil but should require of that toil the things which go to make the life of the worker worth the living. This reciprocal plan includes more than those material compensations which man has come to expect. It includes a sense of satisfaction in something well done, gradual acquirement of that education which only work, coupled with experience, can give.

There are some men who work to keep the wolf from the door. They work, as it were, always on the defensive. Others toil for the material rewards alone, caring little for the congeniality of the thing if the remuneration be satisfactory. They look to the accumulating stores of wealth as the final end to all endeavor. Then there are others, and more of them than we suspect, who work for the very joy of it. Choosing that calling which to them, by its very nature, will prove a great game rather than toil, they go singing their way through the years, getting more out of the living than some people ever dreamed. It is when men work like that—for the love of it, for the service of it—that they extract from their labors that recompense which is worth more than much fine gold. Incidentally, these men very often amass a goodly share of fine gold also.

After all, it does not make so much difference about the calling. Most depends upon the individual. We all, or the great majority of us, have to work. Truly, most men must eat their bread in the sweat of their brow. What better, what more delightfully practical philosophy, than to decide at the start to give our hearts to the task.

Now that the time is fast fading away when we must keep the home fires burning, let's keep the home factories running.—Charleston Daily Mail.

Great Figures Called

(Pasadena Star-News)

They are calling the long roll in heaven—and many illustrious ones on earth are answering. Amy Lowell and Sir H. Rider Haggard taken from the realm of literature; Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, famous warrior, called from the field of arms. Day unto day adds to the numbers of the eminent summoned by Death. Here is one visitant that levels all distinctions—that brings the great and powerful, the weak and humble; the talented and the simple-minded, to one common physical level in the tomb.

In literature, as a writer of verse and as a critic, Amy Lowell distinguished herself, becoming a stylist—sometimes erratic, but always brilliant. She came of a distinguished New England family and maintained its traditions for intellectual vigor.

Sir H. Rider Haggard roved a literary field full of mystery—South Africa. Some of his works are of rare charm for romantic flavor and creative imagery. He also gave important service to the British Empire in time of stress.

General Miles' sudden death closed a long and brilliant nemesis of the hostile Indians of the West and Southwest—his career of Indian fighter being especially notable. He was old enough to see active service in the Civil War and in the war with Spain and he led the successful expedition into Porto Rico. He will rank high among America's military leaders.

Battle Hymn of the Republic

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord;
He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored;
He hath loosed the fateful lightning of his terrible swift sword,
His truth is marching on.

I have seen him in the watch-fires of a hundred circling camps;
They have builded him an altar in the evening dews and damps;
I can read his righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps,
His day is marching on.

I have read a fiery gospel, writ in burnished rows of steel;
"As ye deal with my contemners, so with you my grace shall deal;

Let the hero, born of woman, crush the serpent with his heel, Since God is marching on!"

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat;
He is sifting out the hearts of men before his judgment-seat;
Oh! be swift, my soul, to answer him; be jubilant, my feet!
Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in his bosom that transfigures you and me;
As he died to make men holy; let us die to make men free.
While God is marching on!

—Julia Ward Howe.

Decoration

"Manibus date lilia plenis"
Mid the flower-wreathed tombs I stand,
Bearing lilies in my hand.
Comrades! in what soldier-grave
Sleeps the bravest of the brave?
Is it he who sank to rest
With his colors round his breast?
Friendship makes his tomb a shrine,
Garlands veil it; ask not mine.
One lone grave, yon trees beneath,
Bears no roses, wears no wreath;
Yet no heart more high and warm
Ever dared the battle-storm.

Never gleamed a prouder eye
In the front of victory:
Never foot had firmer tread

One the field where hope lay dead,
Than are hid within this tomb,
Where the untended grasses bloom;
And no stone, with feigned distress,
Mocks the sacred loneliness.

Youth and beauty, dauntless will,
Dreams that life could ne'er fulfil,
Here lie buried—here in peace
Wrongs and woes have found release.

Turning from my comrades' eyes,
Kneeling where a woman lies,
I strew lilies on the grave
Of the bravest of the brave.

—Thomas Wentworth Higginson.

Gary on Capital and Labor

(National Republican)

Judge Elbert H. Gary, president of the U. S. Steel Corporation, is one of the far-sighted industrial leaders who is always ready to weigh the other side of conflicts between capital and labor, or between capital and public opinion. In a recent address, he said: "Never before in the history of the world has any country had such an opportunity for advancement as the United States possesses just at this time. The fundamentals are here, the foundation has been laid. It is up to us, the people, to do our part."

"What we need and must endeavor to bring about is more unity of purpose and action, less discord, higher standards, more honesty, more work, more energy, more charity, more conciliation, more self-denial."

"From this time forward those who have been severely criticized, even though in many cases unjustly, should carefully consider all the criticisms which have been made with a determination to ascertain where and in what respect, if any, they have been wrong, and, if necessary, to provide a remedy. Likewise those who criticize others should more carefully guard against unjust attack."

"If capital has been arrogant, tyrannical or unreasonable, it must overcome its impurities or inequities, and for its own benefit, in self-defense, it must adopt principles of propriety and justice."

"If those less prosperous have been unreasonable in their demands or complaints, if they have been unwilling to contribute their services toward their own necessities, they should be more diligent and more considerate, acknowledging the fact that unless capital is permitted to legitimately proceed in development and extension and utilization, the whole community must suffer."

"In short, it is time for every single interest in every department of our existence, political, social, financial, commercial, industrial or educational, to consider unselfishly and fairly the interests of all others with the desire and intention of benefiting the whole human race."

The ones who look down on the world from great heights are aviators, intellectuals and kids of sixteen.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Proper Utilization of Lumber

(Redlands Facts)

National Lumber Manufacturers' Association declares that the forests of the country are robbed of $140,000,000 worth of wood every year by an unnecessary insistence of long boards for building. The waste in forest and mill, and on the building job, is declared due solely to a misunderstanding which demands long boards where shorter lengths would serve as well and would save waste all the way from the forest to the finished house.

Good lumbering and marketing calls for the utilization of the whole tree. The buying public should co-operate with the mills in this matter as an aid to forest conservation.

Building Stones

(Youth's Companion)

A young man inherited from his father a large tract of rocky land on condition that with funds provided in the will he build a house on the ground and live there for five years. If in that time he succeeded in making a living from the place, it was his; if he failed, the property went to some one else.

That father knew his son; he knew that his boy needed just that prod to his pride and ambition to make a man of him. The son built the house and then set about making a living. He gathered up the rocks and with them built his chimney and his fireplace. He walled his garden with them; he laid his walks with them; he sold tons of them. For the first two or three years he made a living out of the stones. Then when the top soil was cleared and in workable condition he went to farming. Now he is one of the most prosperous farmers in his neighborhood.

Stumbling stones of difficulty in your way? Nonsense! Some one says, "Difficulties are stones out of which God's houses are built." Make use of your difficulties! Build them into the foundation of your character. Wall out discouragement with them. Make of them stepping stones to your garden of success!

According to government statistics there are 12,000,000 fewer farm hogs in this country than a year ago. And about twice as many road hogs.—Norristown (Pa.) Times-Herald.

Real Estate Ethics

(Riverside Enterprise)

No profession or activity is being more rapidly improved as to the business ethics involved than that of real estate broker. Real estate men are now given courses of study, in which they study the law involving deeds, titles, mortgages, deeds of trust, escrows and the little ethical standards that are important in the business. Real estate boards have assisted the real estate commissioner by giving examinations to applicants for real estate licenses, in order to be certain that the men entering this important business not only are familiar with the details of the business, but are worthy to enter it and to deal with the public.

Riverside not long ago graduated a class of real estate men who had taken a course given under the auspices of the University of Southern California. They received diplomas indicating that they had taken the course. The result should mean better ethics in the business, less danger of improper transactions being attempted and better service to the public as a whole.

Wide awake, active real estate men, fully conscious of their responsibilities to their clients and the public, can be of greatest importance in the development of community life.

—Webster, Address at Bunker Hill, June 17th, 1843

Memorial Day

Memorial Day was established originally to do honor to the soldiers of the Civil War, both the living and the dead, but as the remnant of the living heroes of that war grow less and less, and the great World War has come and gone, our thoughts at this time turn more and more to the large army of men and their families who suffered and endured the hardships of war that a great ideal might come into being. This ideal, universal peace, has not been accomplished yet. We may be travelling slowly and stumblingly toward that end. Who knows? The valiant soldiers have fought their fight and done their part and we, the living, must carry on. Alma Whitaker writes of the "Glories of War" as they appear to her after a most heart-rending experience while visiting a disabled veteran's home in this part of the state. After citing case after case of the helpless victims of the "glories of war," she appeals to the women of the country thus:

"We women can stop war now. For the first time in history we have the power. And surely we women are not befuddled and be-dazzled with this wicked, cruel, maniacal thing called war. Just visit a disabled veteran's ward and realize that these ghastly human monstrosities, these dreadful soul-searing wrecks are the beloved sons of women, the pick of them, the cream of them. Fancy rearing a son for such a ghastly, hideous fate. As I saw them there was murder in my heart—the lust to murder any and everybody who could dare to make war possible."

Just now as the members of the American Legion are making their drive to secure funds for the proper support for the orphaned children of our soldiers, the following poem makes a special appeal. It was written by J. C. Davis of Devore, Calif., in 1921, when bonuses and adjusted compensation were subjects of heated debates and deferred legislative action. And we have made no satisfactory compensation to our returned soldiers yet!

OUR DEBT.

A.D. 1921

"We are the people—and the Government."
We are "our brother's keeper"; we who sent Him faring far across the perilous seas
To aid mankind and guard our liberties.
Not all Gollond's gold can pay our debt;
Not while Old Glory waves shall we forget!

We cheered them on—we sent them down to death;
For us—for us—they spent their latest breath;
For us, in some foul trench, their final stand
They made; some grisly pit of No Man's Land
Has swallowed them, nor all our floods of tears
Can tide them back to live their young lost years!

Crown those with laurel and with asphodel,
In dreamless sleep they rest—and it is well.
But what of these who uncomplaining wear
Wounds that time cannot heal; or bravely bear
For us, the tortures that with every breath
Make life itself a living, lingering death?

Prate ye of "Charity" for such as these?
Down in the dust! Upon your bended knees!
Craving their pardon for the very thought!
Now, by the Living God, the men who fought
Our battles shall not be insulted thus!
We are their debtors. They the pawns for us!
How long shall we—the Government—delay
To own the score we never can repay?
That we might live we pledged our brothers' lives;
Pay now one tithe while Honor still survives!

MEMORIAL DAY

The bugle echoes shrill and sweet,
But not of war it sings today.
The road is rhythmic with the feet
Of men at arms who come to pray.

The roses blossom white and red,
On tombs where weary soldiers lie;
Flags wave above the honored dead,
And martial music cleaves the sky.

Above their wreath-strewn graves we kneel,
They kept the faith and fought the fight.
Through flying lead and crimson steel
They plunked for Freedom and the Right.

May we, their grateful children, learn
Their strength, who lie beneath this sod,
Who went through fire and death to earn
At last, the accolade of God.

In shining rank on rank arrayed
They march, the legions of the Lord;
He is their Captain, unafraid,
The Prince of Peace—who brought a sword.
—Joyce Kilmer.

In Memoriam

To commemorate the deeds of the living and the dead who participated in the various wars of the Republic, a grateful nation bows in humble reverence each Memorial Day.

For Better Health

In order that children who are to enter the city schools for the first time next fall may do so with every possible advantage from a physical standpoint, directors of Ontario community health activities have arranged for a series of free physical examinations for all such children, it was announced today.

Examination at this time will make it possible to correct in a large measure any physical defects which may be found before the opening of school in September.

The examination will be in charge of Miss Amy McNall, community and school nurse. All children will be weighed and carefully looked over. For children who are found to be under weight, a course of diet will be recommended to parents and other helpful suggestions will be given. If children are found to be in need of medical attention they will be recommended to consult with their family physician. The majority of the children to be examined at this time will be those who will enter kindergarten or the first grade, but newcomers to Ontario who will enter higher grades in the fall will also be given attention.

The first free examination is being held today at the South Euclid Avenue school. Monday, Miss McNall will be at Central school for the same purpose; Tuesday at San Antonio Avenue school and Wednesday at the health center at the city hall.

The health center, by the way, has just been renovated and redecorated at a cost of approximately $500 and would be a credit to cities many times the size of Ontario.

The community health work is sponsored by the Ontario Red Cross Chapter, the city school system and the municipality and directly in charge are Mrs. Isaac Jones, representing the Red Cross; Superintendent of Schools C. W. Randall, and Dr. S. P. Edwards, representing the city.

Fine Outlook

Not in many months has the building outlook in Ontario been brighter than at the present, it was declared today. Permits issued Wednesday by City Building Inspector O. S. Roen represent an expenditure of $10,100, which makes the May total with two days yet to go $13,850, or more than $10,000 in excess of the complete total for the month of May, 1924.

The two principal permits Wednesday were for 6-room frame dwellings to be erected by Dan Jones, who has a record of more new dwellings in Ontario during the past year or more than any other local contractor. Each of the houses is to cost $5000, one being for Lloyd Hammond at 128 Monterey avenue and the other for Mr. Jones, himself, at 725 East G street.

With plans going forward for the erection by Dr. Calvert L. Emmons of a three-story business structure at 301 No. Euclid avenue at a cost of some $30,000, and with the Exchange Orange Products Company, which recently purchased a site here for the location of their big plant, planning to spend something over $100,000 in construction, the coming weeks bid fair to be marked by unusual building activity here.

Miss Guentz Dead

Miss Edith Gertrude Guentz, who came here last December from her home in Winona, Minn., in search of improved health, died Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. B. R. Robertson, 633 East Pothill street, at the age of 30. Heart trouble was given as the cause of death.

For a time after coming here, Miss Guentz was employed as a stenographer in San Francisco, but in recent months her condition became so serious that she was obliged to give up work. Her mother, Mrs. Lewis J. Guentz, arrived from Minnesota two weeks ago and the father has been notified by wire and is now en route to Ontario.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of J. B. Draper and the date has been tentatively set for Monday at 2 p. m. at the Draper chapel. Interment will be in Bellevue cemetery.

Lions Club

With 33 of their number in San Diego for the district convention of the organization, the twelve stay-at-homes of the Ontario Lions Club characterized themselves as the "dirty dozen" when they met in weekly luncheon session at Hotel Casa Blanca.

What they lacked in numbers, they made up in enthusiasm and the occasion was featured by an enjoyable informal program of songs and general hilarity.

A. W. Hayes acted as luncheon chairman and Hugh Montgomery, the club's most recent bridegroom, recited some interesting bits regarding his recent honeymoon to San Francisco and points north.

Plans were outlined at this meeting for the organization of a team to enter the city indoor baseball league and club members were called upon to donate the use of their motor cars two days next week for use in showing visiting Shriners over the community.

John Nielson of Ontario was a guest of the club on this occasion.

AMUNDSEN SAFE, SAYS EXPLORER

D. M. LeBourdais, newspaper man and magazine writer, personal friend of Roald Amundsen, and himself an Arctic explorer of wide experience, sees no cause for alarm in the failure to hear from the Amundsen-Ellsworth North Pole expedition which left Spitzbergen yesterday a week ago, he declared Tuesday afternoon in a talk before members of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce in luncheon session at the Hotpoint Club. Mr. LeBourdais predicts that the Amundsen party will likely be heard from next in Alaska and probably within the course of the next three weeks.

Mr. LeBourdais, who is now visiting in Ontario, was with Amundsen in New York last February shortly before he sailed for Norway and at that time discussed with him plans for the dash to the North Pole.

The speaker gave it as his opinion that barring mechanical accidents, such as might occur anywhere, that members of the expedition will return in safety. He declared flying over the Arctic be much less hazardous than flying over the Atlantic, since the former offers the aviator opportunity to light on the ice and pointed out that while the frigid temperature might be considered a serious handicap, that it must be borne in mind that Amundsen and Ellsworth are experienced Arctic explorers, prepared to cope with the elements.

In the event of the failure of the explorers to return, Mr. LeBourdais foresaw that their deaths will not have been in vain, since their loss is bound to result in wholesale exploration of the Arctic region, which cannot fail to result in incalculable good. In this connection, the speaker cited the case of the loss of the Arctic explorer Franklin, some years ago. The death of Ellsworth, an American citizen, would furnish the United States government with the necessary incentive for Arctic explorations, in the belief of Mr. LeBourdais and he predicted that it would result in putting into execution much-discussed plans for sending the Shenandoah to the North Pole, something which is held by experts to be entirely feasible, but which has been postponed through apathy.

Mr. LeBourdais also spoke interestingly of the reindeer industry of Alaska, which had its start in 1891 with the importation of 16 head of stock from Siberia and which today has grown to more than 400,000 head. He predicted that with the beef supply not only failing to keep pace with the increasing population of the world, but actually falling off as grazing land is found more valuable for other purposes than the tundras of Alaska, which he described as the "great pasture reserves of the world," are destined, through the reindeer to furnish the world meat supply of the future. He pointed out that the population of the world has doubled in the last 80 years and that the beef supply had decreased.

Mr. LeBourdais recited that reindeer, domesticated in northern Europe and Asia since before the dawn of history, although plentiful in Alaska, had never been domesticated by the Eskimos and the domesticated animals were first imported from Siberia thru the efforts of the Rev. Sheldon Jackson, who through public subscription raised $2043 for the purpose, to stop starvation among the natives. Reindeer production was finally encouraged under government supervision and in order to handle it successfully, it was found necessary to import a band of skilled Laplanders, of whom Samuel Johansen Balto was the

by the Loman Brothers, four in number, now the biggest reindeer producers, decided to go into the business on a large scale. Starting with a herd of 1000 animals, they now have 50,000, shipping more than 2500 carcasses last year and expecting to increase the number this year. Reindeer meat may now be purchased in all the principal cities of the country, according to Mr. LeBourdais.

The speaker told how the reindeer, natives of the far north, thrive in Alaska, feeding on lichens or reindeer moss in winter and grass in summer. The cost of production was quoted at $1 per head a year and it has been estimated that the Alaskan tundras will care for 4,000,000 head, while northern Canada will care for some 20,000,000 head additional. Contrary to general belief, the speaker declared that there is comparatively little snow in the far northern portions of Alaska, so that the reindeer feed is not buried and he pointed out that the deer, unlike cattle, thrive in the blizzards which sweep the country.

B. W. Spencer, who acted as luncheon chairman, announced that Miss Florence Stone, well-known actress of the Pilgrimage Play, is to be the speaker before next week's chamber luncheon. He also told of plans for entertaining some 6000 Shriners here on Jun 3 and 4 and made a plea for the use of motor cars in showing the visitors over the city.

U. S. FORBIDS CAMPING ON LYTLE GOV. LAND

Announcement by J. H. Hayden, forest ranger for the Lytle Creek district, today is to the effect that camping on government land in Lytle Creek Canyon except at the public camping grounds, is expressly forbidden.

Dangers of campers starting fires has resulted in the closing of the public domain to uncontrolled camping. Grounds provided, however, have proper facilities for fire control and sanitation.

The government has allowed four public camping grounds to be opened, namely Warm Springs, Glenn Ranch, South Fork, and Bonita. They can accommodate 1500 automobiles.

A big season is anticipated at Lytle Creek, as it is one of the most accessible places to reach by motor in the San Bernardino National Forest.

SOCIETY and CLUB

NEW OFFICERS FOR PRISCILLA CLUB—

Election of officers featured the regular meeting of members of the Priscilla Club on Thursday when they met at the home of Mrs. Leon Durham on West 13th Street. Mrs. John Sanford acting as joint hostess. A chicken dinner was served at noon, and the table decorations brought forth many notes of admiration from the guests, as the hostesses had a lovely collection of wild flowers, some of the prettiest and many quite rare.

Officers chosen for the year were Mrs. Leon Durham, president; Mrs. E. H. Hardt, vice-president; Mrs. Earl Marsh, secretary and treasurer (re-elected). Annual reports were given and plans made for the yearly picnic and jollification in which husbands and children of the club members join. The picnic will be held at Ganessa Park, Pomona, on Thursday, June 18th, and will close the year's activities. The next meeting will be held in the fall. Guests of the day were Mrs. Clarence Dinger and Mrs. Donald Meredith, and members present were Mrs. Wilbur Rider, Mrs. S. S. Genung, Mrs. Royal V. Ward, Mrs. William Springer, Mrs. W. F. Kitchel, Mrs. W. B. Cavers, Mrs. E. H. Hardt, Mrs. J. F. Robinson, Mrs. P. H. Vandenberg, Mrs. Joel Gillingwater, Mrs. L. R. Bradley, Mrs. W. F. Naftel, and the two hostesses.

MISS ISABEL SMITH COMPLIMENTED—

Miss Isabel K. Smith, a June bride, has been much feted recently among her many friends here, showers of various kinds forming the basis of the several parties given in her honor.

On Sunday, Miss Pearl Clark was hostess at her home on J Street, Ontario, to Miss Smith and a few friends, entertaining with a supper and miscellaneous show. Many pretty and useful articles were hidden under what appeared to be a tempting cake, so tempting in fact that the guest of honor had to be forcibly restrained from plunging a knife into it. When the icing and wrappings were removed dainty packages were revealed and much fun had when each gift was undone. Those present beside the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Clark, and the guest of honor, were Miss Louise Harris, Miss Janet Stone,

Miss Eleanor Leahy, Miss Helen Cronin, Miss Lillian Graves.

On Tuesday evening Miss Marion Campbell and Mrs. Mabel Leeke were hostesses at a linen shower in honor of Miss Smith, the affair taking place at the Campbell residence on West F Street, Ontario.

An amusing feature of the evening was a mock wedding, the clergyman's part being taken by Miss Eleanor Leahy, the bride by Miss Louise Harris, the groom by Miss Campbell, the bridesmaid by Miss Naomi Koster, and Little Ada Ethel Leeke, daughter of the hostess, acting as ring-bearer. Miss Smith received a number of pretty linen gifts and the evening ended with the serving of dainty refreshments.

Those invited were Mrs. Agnes Newcomer, Mrs. Alfred C. Smith, Mrs. Ada Brown, Miss Wanda Lee Johnson, Miss Marion Cornelius, Miss Lois Craig, Miss Mabel Edwards, Miss Leahy, Miss Rollins, Miss Ethel Schmeckel, Miss Vina Danks, Miss Esther Anderson, Miss Harris, Miss Koster.

MRS. DURHAM ENTERTAINS AT LUNCHEON TODAY—

Members of the College Study Course, an organization composed of Upland and Ontario women, were guests today of Mrs. Leon Durham at her attractive ranch home on West 13th Street, when she entertained with a delightful luncheon. Wonderful blossoms from the desert and baskets of wild dried grasses were used in decoration. Following the delicious menu, a charming little ceremony was enacted in which Mrs. H. W. Hawkingson, leader of the College Study Course, was presented with a gold wrist watch as appreciation of her ability in directing the course. Mrs. Durham made the presentation in a graceful speech, and Mrs. Hawkingson responded in her clever way. Later everyone motored to Pomona College, where they heard an interesting lecture on Egyptian life.

Guests of the day were Mrs. Ashby Powell, Mrs. W. F. Kitchel and Mrs. Miles Harnly, and members of the club enjoying Mrs. Durham's delightful hospitality were Mrs. J. L. Short, Mrs. Fred Clapp, Mrs. Mary Eckerman, Mrs. W. S. Avery, Mrs. Frank Anderson, Mrs. P. H. McQuillen, Mrs. H. W. Hawkingson, Mrs. H. C. Hornburg, Mrs. W. W. Mather, Mrs. E. A. McGill, Mrs. Novella Highsmith, Mrs. Harold Stickney, Miss Ethel Leeke.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON AT THE SYCAMORES—

Mrs. Veeder South and Mrs. Frank K. Nichols were joint hostesses yesterday at a delightfully arranged bridge luncheon given at The Sycamores.

Sweet peas, columbine and other dainty spring flowers were used with pretty effect in the lobby and dining room, and twelve tables were placed for the game of auction bridge, which formed the afternoon's diversion. Prizes for the three highest scores were captured by Mrs. Donald Craig, Mrs. Robert Rainey Harrington, Mrs. William E. O'Brien and the consolation trophy was awarded Mrs. James Lynward Grahame. Fifty society women in Upland, Ontario and Cucamonga enjoyed the charming affair.

MISS TWEED HOSTESS TO STUDY SECTION—

Miss Mary Tweed will be hostess at the all-day meeting of the Study Section of the Upland Woman's Club, which will be held at her home on Euclid Avenue Wednesday, June 3rd.

This is the final meeting of the club year, and apot-luck luncheon will be enjoyed at noon, followed by an interesting program on the literature of Oregon, Washington and Alaska, Miss Ethel Leeke taking the first named and Mrs. Malcolm Galbraith reviewing the literature of the two latter places.

All members are cordially invited, and it is hoped there will be a number present to make the last meeting of the year an enjoyable one.

ENTRE NOUS CLUB ENTERTAINED—

Meeting at the home of Mrs. F. B. Harn on Euclid Avenue, members of the Entre Nous Club spent a delightful afternoon on Wednesday, the time going quickly in fancy work and merry conversation. A color scheme of blue and gold was cleverly displayed in bouquets of larkspur and Scottish bloom, and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess late in the afternoon.

Guests of the day were Mrs. Hjalmar Anderson and her mother, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Elmer L. Mathews and Mrs. Jennie Brown. Club members were Mrs. H. C. Hornburg, Mrs. Miles Harnly, Mrs. W. H. Tuttle, Mrs. Mary Eckerman, Mrs. Gust Anderson, Mrs. Alice Erickson, Mrs. M. E. Titus, Mrs. John Anderson, Miss Addie Klein-schmidt.

DINNER-DANCE PROVES DELIGHTFUL EVENT—

The annual social event of the Upland Business and Professional Women's Club, of which Mrs. C. V. Calhoun is president, to which the ladies invite the men, was held at Marigold Garden, on the Foothill Boulevard near Monrovia, Tuesday evening, when a dinner dance was the main feature of the evening. During the dinner P. H. McQuillen was asked to act as an impromptu toastmaster, and he, in turn, asked some of the men to give impromptu talks, in other words, it was a woman's club meeting at which the men did the talking.

Following the serving of the dinner more dancing was enjoyed and the event was voted a success by some 144 people who attended.

LUNCHEON IN HONOR OF HOSTESS' MOTHER—

Complimenting her mother, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Hjalmar Anderson was hostess on Thursday at a one o'clock luncheon at her home on East Tenth Street. The house was beautiful with baskets of Canterbury Bells, and table decorations were white and yellow. Covers were marked for Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Mary Eckerman, Mrs. P. O. Long, Mrs. Merton E. Hill, Mrs. Gust Anderson, Mrs. C. K. Francisco, Mrs. Alice Erickson, Mrs. F. B. Harn.

MRS. BEAUER HOSTESS—

A bridge luncheon of charming appointments was given by Mrs. E. F. Beauer on Thursday, at her home, 648 Euclid Avenue. Canterbury bells and delphinium were used to carry out an artistic color scheme.

After luncheon the guests gathered round the bridge tables and played the fascinating game of auction during the afternoon. Prizes were taken by Mrs. L. R. Weller, Mrs. A. Bradford Whitney and Mrs. C. A. Baeruerien. Beside Mrs. L. B. Akers of Atlanta, Georgia, house-guest of the hostess, others were Mrs. Frank Van Natta, Mrs. Horace Little, Mrs. Guilford Meredith, Mrs. Harlow S. Wilson, Mrs. George B. Harrison, Mrs. G. A. Hanson, Mrs. W. T. Hadley, Miss Theresa Schless.

LIBRARY CAPACITY INCREASED HERE

Just within the last few weeks there has been built a room in the basement on the east side of the big room formerly used as a meeting place for the Board of Trustees of the City of Upland and later as a meeting place for the Upland Woman's Club, etc., a magazine room—that is, shelves have been built around a certain place making a regular room. Besides this shelving space, two large stacks have also been moved down from the upper floor, giving in all 450 running feet of shelving space. All magazines now in cases are being filed there after first being checked by Mrs. Austerman. When all are moved and settled and proper lists made, the library will have plenty of reference material available by using the Readers' Guide.

On the west side of the basement there is plenty of room for the children's department and possibly in another year's time this dream may come true. The west side has all the windows there and will undoubtedly make a delightful airy room for the children. The children's librarian will also have charge of the magazine room, thus relieving the librarian and assistant, who at present must run down wherever a magazine is desired.

Outside on the grounds has been planted the last of the shrubbery that money was appropriated for by the city trustees last year. It was late when the trees were planted last spring and altogether too late to put out shrubbery. Most of the shrubbery has been massed against the fire hall wall and toward the back of the library. Eight climbing vines have been placed around the library and will soon be covering the walls with green. In January of next year the rose bushes now around the library will be planted at the north edge of the lawn west of the library and that part will be called the rose garden.

The following letter may be of interest to the people of Upland who donated books during "Sailors' Book Week," and to others who may another year have the opportunity of donating to this worthy cause:

Upland Public Library, Upland, California.

My dear Mrs. Manker: It is a pleasure to acknowledge the contributions of your library and community during Book Week, 1925, which have been received by the Seamen's Church Institute.

Our shelves are being replenished with the books which the public have so generously contributed to our solicitation and we have every assurance that there will be a large supply of books from which to make up our libraries until another Book Week brings us in a fresh supply of books. Miss Huntington will be able to report at the annual meeting the total number of books, but at present it seems safe to say that we have received somewhere in the neighborhood of six thousand books.

Thanking you again for your co-operation with the Seamen's Church Institute in putting the public library upon the seas, I remain,

Ever sincerely yours,
Frederic K. Howard,
Chaplain.

TEACHERS TO MEET AT ONTARIO IN OCT.

October 2nd has been announced for the next teachers' institute and Ontario will be host to the teachers of the county schools on that date. This was stated at the meeting of several representatives of the schools in San Bernardino County, held on Tuesday evening in Ontario.

Two speakers were suggested, one being Rabbi Magnin of Los Angeles, and the other Mark Koppel, Los Angeles County Superintendent of Schools, and an interesting program was outlined. There will be meetings at both Ontario Junior High School and Chaffey, and dinner will be served 700 guests at noon in Chaffey cafeteria. In the afternoon there will be a meeting in the Chaffey auditorium, and one in the Junior High auditorium.

E. W. Fischer and M. A. Gauer are the chairmen of the two sessions. Those present at the meeting on Tuesday included besides the above-named men, Miss Ida Collins, county superintendent of schools; Miss Elizabeth Griggs, Upland; Mrs. John Daniels, Ohio; Miss Vina Danks, Ontario Junior High; Mrs. Emma Knight of San Bernardino; Miss Margaret Oliver of Colton; C. W. Randall, city superintendent of Ontario schools.

Cottonwood—Pacific Gas and Electric Company to spend $15,185 for power line extensions.

Haven't Realized It—

A man once said, "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." That man was smart, and he knew he was smart, and he knew he school boy who was asked by a cross-word puzzle fiend for a word of five letters meaning concentrated energy, and answered "w-o-m-a-n," didn't know that he had spoken a truth, didn't know he was smart. He thought he was clever, but the answer that boy gave was a true one, and never was that truth more emphasized than the other night when the members of the Upland Business and Professional Women's Club gave a dinner-dance that would have done credit to a much larger organization.

From 7:30 P. M. until 12 M. the evening was one of enjoyment; not once was a squeak heard; the whole thing ran on well-oiled wheels, so to speak.

As I sat on the side-lines discussing the evening with one of the members of the committee who had worked so hard to make the evening the success it was, I couldn't help but marvel at the ease with which women (and I use the term generally) had come to the point where they could put over a coup d'etat without the expenditure of too much energy; read some where that women were crowding the men in all lines, and the thought came to me that they weren't crowding the men at all; they were just a little ahead of them—only the men haven't realized it just yet.

LEAGUE ISSUES STATEMENT

The Public School Protective League has issued the following statement to its members:

It should be thoroughly understood that physical examinations and medical treatment of preschool age children, although urged, sanctioned and recommended by local, state and federal bodies, are not compulsory. No law of the state backs the widespread movement of the political forces now seeking control of the preschool children, but unless the tendency to place more and more power in matters of physical examinations and treatment of school children in the hands of public health administrators is curbed, Californians may find themselves at no distant date in the position of accepting state medicine. Would this be any more acceptable than state prescribed religion? It is only a step from one concession to another, and what today may appear to be a fine privilege, a public benefaction, solicited, kindly supervision, a lifting of the expense and burden from parents, may, by a few turns of the wheel of some future pro-medical legislative body, be resolved into law—law compelling all parents to submit the care of the bodies of all school children, and perhaps their own, to the control of whatever particular school of medicine may have then gained the reins of governmental power.

Wholesale physical examinations and medication at best may be decidedly superficial, inefficient and perhaps dangerous. School diagnoses, given hurriedly and wholesale, are often erroneous. School funds appropriated for the purpose, while already a heavy burden on the taxpayers, are undoubtedly inadequate to employ the highest specialized talent and to guarantee the thoroughness and accuracy of diagnosis, operation and treatment which such paternalistic service should insure.

The Public School Protective League of Los Angeles holds that the persistent attempts being made to place the physical welfare, as well as the mental cultivation of the rising generation under the control of municipal or state institutions tends to weaken and undermine the platforms of democracy and individual rights upon which American citizenship is founded.

Those parents who shunt the responsibility for their child's health and general welfare to public institutions may reap the fruits of such shirking when, in the years to come, the child realizes that perhaps in his youth he did not have that individual care to which he was entitled, and asks the parents, why did you deny me my birthright?

LIBRARY CLUB HAS MEETING AT SAN DIMAS

"Gossip About Some Authors I Have Known" was the subject of a delightful talk given by Miss Mary Jones of Pasadena at the regular meeting of the San Antonio Library Club, held at San Dimas on Saturday the 23rd. She was personally acquainted with Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Elsie Singmaster, Katherine Fullerton and Willa S. Cather. Miss Jones also had the pleasure of reciting before Oscar Wilde. He had his velvet coat on, his silk stockings and wore his hair bobbed, but long. Another time Miss Jones lunched with Henry James. However, most of her talk, or gossip, was of Miss Cather. She was attending school at the same university that Miss Jones was acting as librarian, and so she had a chance to see much of her. Willa Cather was a splendid Greek scholar and graduated at 20 years of age. Miss Jones remembered her first sight of her as a gawky girl wearing a boy's flannel shirt and hat, with a skirt, of course, and men's heavy shoes and her hair in a straight pompadour—as mannish as possible. Her transformation into a womanish woman, with real woman's clothes and long hair, was very aptly told by Miss Jones. However, in criticizing Willa Cather's works, Miss Jones said she never created a character—they were all modeled after some one she knew or had heard of. "Lost Lady" Miss Jones considered the best book written by Willa Cather.

Dorothy Canfield Fisher graduated from Columbia at the age of 21. Miss Jones considered her books rather preachy. However, her father and grandfather were one a teacher and the other a preacher, so what could one expect?

Elsie Singmaster wrote "Sarah Saves the Day" and "Sarah of Gettysburg," two books for girls that Miss Jones considers the best written about Gettysburg because Elsie Singmaster certainly knew locality well.

Katherine Fullerton lost some books at college and eventually they were found under her bed. Just how long they were lost Miss Jones did not say. "Fruit of the Mango Tree" is considered by Miss Jones the best of her writings.

All four were scholarly women, and Miss Jones classed them with Edith Wharton and Anne Douglas Sedgwick of English fame.

Prior to the talk of Miss Jones, a short business session was held, called to order by the president, Miss Elizabeth Harris of Pomona. It was voted to send $10.00 to a Pomona College graduate who is teaching in a school for girls in Mexico, to buy special books for the girls such as all American girls have for their use. Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Miss Helen Rees of San Dimas, president, and Miss Groves of the Pomona Public Library, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Ewing of Pomona College library, Mrs. Martin of Ontario Public Library, and Mrs. Isabel Neales of Chaffey library, the three members of the executive board.

A discussion of buying sets of books which had proved worth while or not, special exhibits, time allotted for reference work to each borrower, and the Toronto method of book repairing followed. Many had been privileged to attend a demonstration of the Toronto method when Miss Baumer was in California.

The meeting was held in the Union Church at San Dimas, where a delicious lunch was served by Miss Rees and her helpers. Those who attended from Upland were: Mrs. F. H. Manker, Mrs. A. E. Austerman, Mrs. Mary Hadow and Mrs. Hubert L. Manker.

Open Bids for Many Highways

Bids were opened Monday by the California Highway Commission on projects in San Diego, San Bernardino and Monterey Counties. In San Diego County, a 400-foot concrete bridge will be constructed across San Mateo Creek, in the northern part of the county, where the commission is relocating more than a mile of the highway to eliminate a number of dangerous curves, shortening the distance two-thirds of a mile.

The low bidder on the bridge project was R. A. Watson of Los Angeles. His offer was $74,787; engineer's estimate $96,320.

In San Bernardino, 5.49 miles of county-built pavement will be widened and thickened with a cement concrete pavement twenty feet wide for a portion of the distance, and with concrete shoulders and asphalt concrete surfacing for the balance.

The low bidder was Basch Brothers of Los Angeles, with an offer of $119,879.70; engineer's estimate $142,731.75.

Twenty-three miles of rock shoulders will be placed along the highway in Monterey County as a safety measure and to provide a foundation for future widening of the pavement. The low bidder was Fred W. Rightbert of Bakersfield, whose bid was $66,205. The engineer's estimate was $89,285.

The San Diego bridge will be financed with federal aid, the others with gasoline tax funds.

PASSING of the FIGHTERS of the CIVIL WAR

Their Roster is Now Diminishing at a Rapid Rate - The Last Survivor Will Succumb Before the End of 1944 - Widows Will Draw Pensions From Uncle Sam For a Long Time Yet.

By RENE BACHE

ON Memorial Day of the present year, May 30, according to the reckoning of the Pension Office, about 131,000 veterans of the Civil War will be still in the land of the living.

They are passing off life's stage at a rate somewhat exceeding 1800 a month. But now and then what might be called a death epidemic strikes them, and three or four times that number depart in a thirty-day period.

Such a death epidemic (says the Pension Office) may be due to a prevalence of "flu," or it may arrive with an exceptionally cold early spring, after the old soldiers have been warmly housed during the winter, pneumonia carrying them off, as it were, in flocks.

They are all nearly the same age—men who at the time of the Civil War were boys, or hardly more than boys. The older veterans have already gone, almost all of them.

The Pension Office has figured out, with a certainty of close approximation to exactness, the number of Civil War veterans who will be alive each coming year. Five years from now, in 1930, there will be just a few more than thirty-seven thousand of them left. In 1935 about sixty-three hundred will be alive. In 1940 only three hundred and forty will remain.

The last survivor will succumb before the first day of January, 1945. He will have reached practically the utmost limit of human longevity, dying probably in his one hundred and sixth year, or possibly a few months later than that.

Who Will Be Last To Go?

That man, today, whoever he may be, does not realize the remarkable distinction that awaits him. Most remarkable, indeed, it will be, inasmuch as he will be the only one to survive out of 2,213,365 men who (including the navy and marine corps) did military duty on the Union side in the great strife of sections.

At the end of the war, 1,727,353 of that total number remained alive—and their average was only twenty-eight. Which latter fact gives a notion of the youthfulness of those who fought in that conflict. In 1890 there were still 1,235,471 of them living; but thereafter they began to pass off the scene much more rapidly, and the number surviving ten years later was less than one million. Only about 400,000 of them were left in 1917. Today, as above stated, hardly more than 131,000 remain; and they are going fast.

They are all very old—a great majority well along in the eighties or nineties—and, having nearly reached the extreme limit of life, they will die off rapidly. All will be gone by 1945.

Last Revolutionary Widow

The last-surviving widow of a soldier of the Revolution was Esther S. Damon, who died at Plymouth Union, Vt., November 11, 1906, in her ninety-third year. She married Noah Damon, who had served in the Massachusetts Continental, when she was twenty-one years old, his age at the time being seventy-eight.

The last survivor of the War of 1812, Hiram Cronk, died at Avon, N. Y., May 13, 1905. He had passed his one hundred and fifth birthday sixteen days earlier.

Hiram, when a centennialist, was accustomed to boast that he had received an offer of marriage for every year in his life. Women, including many who had never seen him, were constantly asking him to marry them, and the older he grew the more desirable he seemed to become as a husband. This might seem surprising were it not explained that the state of New York paid him a pension of $75 a month, to which the Federal Government added $25, and both allowances were transmissible to his widow.

Widows of Revolutionary soldiers to the number of 22,644 were pensioned, and by special acts of Congress pensions were granted to seventy-eight daughters of men who fought in that war.

Though the last veteran of the War of 1812 died twenty years ago, there are still on the pension roll twenty-five widows of soldiers who took part in that conflict.

Only twenty-one men who fought in the Mexican War are now alive, but pensioned widows of that historic struggle today number 1,348.

Uncle Sam's guarantee of an income for life, even though small, to the widow of a soldier gave to veterans a marriage value which many women were quick to appreciate. Young women used to make a business of snaring old soldiers into matrimony, until Congress, in 1905 made a law declaring that there should be no pensions for widows whose marriages to veterans were subsequent to that date. This, however, does not apply to women who marry men who fought in the War with Spain.

Survival Of The Widows

A great many department soldiers left behind them widows much younger than themselves, and thus it comes about that at the present time the surviving widows far outnumber the surviving veterans of the Civil War.

Twenty-five years ago about one-fourth of the Civil War pensioners were widows. A few years later they numbered one-third. Now they are more than three-fifths of the entire number. The time will soon arrive when the widows will outnumber the veterans ten to one. Twenty to one, and many years after the last old Civil War soldier has gone to his grave thousands of Civil War widows will still be drawing allowances from the Government.

The widows of the World War fare far better than those of our previous wars. Pensioned under an entirely different system, each of them gets "compensation" at $25 a month, plus $10 for the first child, $7.50 for the second, $5 for the third, and $5 for the fourth. In addition, there is paid to each widow insurance money for the loss of her husband.

Benefit Of Insurance

Nearly every American soldier who took part in the World War was insured under a system established by the Government, for the administration of which the War Risk Bureau was created, the amounts ranging from $1,000 to $10,000. That office is still operating, but is now called the Veterans' Bureau. It occupies an enormous building on the site of the old Arlington Hotel, a block north of the White House, and employs many thousands of clerks.

Battle-Scarred and Bent With Age the Last Remnant of "The Thin Gray Line" is Making Final Stand Against Time in An Obsolete Union Arsenal.

By MARK ROBINS

LINE Confederate veterans are making a last stand against time in an antiquated United States arsenal resting in the heart of old Pikeville, Md. Yielding before the ravages of years, bent by the ravages of age, this remnant of the "thin gray line" is rapidly giving ground before the enemy that knows no defeat.

Within less than a year a number greater than that of the entire present band of survivors died, and of the handful of octogenarian warriors that remain—the last of 189 who entered the retreat in 1865—none is free from the disability of wounds. Five are now in the hospital, and three are in the very hard pressed.

the hopelessness of the struggle, yet they carry on with a bravery that would shed glory upon any age of fighting men. Within a few years at best all will have been called to the final muster roll, a brief chapter will have been written in history, and the state of Maryland will be free from the disability of wounds.

a last harbor in a Union fortification. But they are content. Traditional Valor Remains Though time has mellowed, if it has not entirely eradicated the factional feeling that once burned so fiercely beneath their gray uniforms, the traditional bravery, that marked both sides of the Civil War, still remains exemplified in these the fight.

Arsenal Battle-Scarred

The arsenal itself is 115 years old, battle-scarred and dilapidated, and harrassed with the old gray fighters who calmly await the end, uncomplaining and unafraid. The breastwork was built after the War of 1812 and was intended as a stronghold for Baltimore. In 1858 it had already become obsolete and was turned over to the State of Maryland, which in turn consigned it to Confederate soldiers.

Then it was a scene of martial formalities; reveille, muster call and retreat were observed with war-time regularity. Old gray uniforms were kept punctiliously clean, sabers polished and muskets oiled.

Today all this is changed. Gray suits and an occasional campaign cap and uniform are all that link the surviving nine with Gettysburg and Antietam. Moths and rust have wrought havoc with former glory. The decrepit men bear little resemblance to the fighters they were 60 years ago.

The soldiers occupy but a small portion of the buildings that once compass a 15-acre lot. Most of the structures are vacant and barred by iron locks, crumbling with age. The Maryland Historical Society has appropriated the relics, but here and there a rusty rifle, a dusty sword remains—too old and worn to be of interest even to the souvenir hunter.

Superintendent A Veteran

Linard Holliday, eighty-four, crippled at Gettysburg, is superintendent. He lives in a separate house with his family and proudly points to autographed pictures and letters from Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis, amid antique furniture that would thrill a collector. The others are: Harry Atzerodt, 81, of Maryland; James Thomas Cottingham, 85, of Georgia; James E. Briddell, 87, of Maryland; George Pliert, 85, of Maryland; William Van Buren Moore, 80, of Virginia; John D. Richardson, 84, of Virginia and Josiah Thomas Settle, 80, of Maryland.

The routine administration of the home still holds a trace of military formality, most dear to these old men who cling to their memories of a past glory. Meals are served with the regularity of a modern army post—three on week days and two on Sundays—and each of these ancient soldiers takes pride in the promptness of his attendance at the mess hall, the preservation of his uniform and equipment and other light duties.

Rank Is Recognized

The respect, with which these retiring veterans observe the anniversary of the cause, the deference which each yields to his ranking superior in engagements of 60 years ago and the anecdotes of the struggle between the North and South which they jealously husband, might serve as an example for the veterans of the World War to emulate. The truth of their statements is also, in most cases, undisputed and many historians from distant states have visited the home to acquire data for modern volumes.

When it is considered that the issues, for which these gray warriors and their blue-clad brothers of the North fought have long since died, that the brother against brother conflict has become considered by the succeeding generations as an unfortunate quarrel that has been settled and should be forgotten, it is all the more remarkable that the martial glory has remained though the ill feeling has passed.

Cucamonga-Alta Loma News

Sunday guests at the foothill home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Thorpe were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Thorpe of Los Angeles, Miss Constance Thorpe and friend, Miss Mary Louise Ives of Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bray and children of Santa Ana were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Bray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Van Fleet.

The latest word received from the hospital at Santa Ana was that the patient, Miss Margaret Thurston, former Cucamonga and Ontario girl, and niece of Mrs. F. B. Van Fleet, was improving after a long and dangerous illness.

Mrs. W. H. Converse returned Wednesday to her home in Alta Loma, after a delightful five-day visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Franklin Roth, in Ontario.

W. E. Morse has been travelling to San Bernardino this week, having been summoned to serve on the jury.

Alma Van Fleet, who has been living with her sister, Mrs. Herbert Bray in Santa Ana, is expected home for a few days' visit this week.

Celebrating his twenty-first birthday, Dan Milliken was host to a number of his friends and college mates at a delightful dancing party May 23rd, the happy affair having the Red Hill Country Club as an attractive setting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hall, who have been living in one of the Roberts cottages in Feron Street, are moving June 1st into their new home recently purchased of F. M. Hendricks in Belmont Ave.

Combining business with pleasure, Mr. Harry Roberts of Alta Loma, accompanied by Mrs. Roberts and party of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Van Horn and Mr. and Mrs. King of Ontario, motored to Ventura for the week-end, returning home Sunday evening.

Messrs. Homer Stipe and Mack Rogers, with party of friends, were among those wending their way to Yucaipa Valley Sunday after some of the luscious cherries.

Lindsay Hill, one of the graduates this spring from Alta Loma School, will be host on Friday evening to some twenty-four of his schoolmates at his home in Olive St. (19th St.).

The graduating class of Alta Loma School, Lindsay Hill, Misses Margaret Pyle, Irene Bennett and Imogene Hughes, will enjoy a merry treat over the week-end when their teacher, Miss Marian Belden, accompanied by Miss Marjory Emerson, will take the party to Lytle Creek, where they will visit the Strieby cottage, charmingly located on the shady banks of the stream, and the spacious home an ideal place for a house-party.

Homer Stipe has been laid up at his home in Turner Avenue part of the week with a disagreeable attack of tonsillitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Harvey Nelson (Edna Todd), who have returned from their honeymoon trip to San Francisco to make their future home in Los Angeles, motored out from the Angel City Saturday in their new Ford coupe, spending the week-end at the home of Mrs. Nelson's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Roberts, Chester Downman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Axley, "newly weds," will be the accomplished guests at a miscellaneous shower and party Thursday evening at the home of Mr. Axley's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts, in Amethyst St.

Grammar Schools Closing—Alta Loma School will close Friday, June 5th, for the summer vacation. Graduating exercises will be held Thursday. Cucamonga Central School is closing a week later, while Cucamonga Southside closes next week.

Wedding Bells Contagious—One of the popular slogans among the younger set is now, "who's next?" Three well-known young couples have inside of two weeks joined the happy army of newly-weds, and with their fine example before him, Harvey Axley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Axley of Archibald Avenue, took unto himself a fair young bride, Miss Mildred Moore of Ontario, the couple motoring to San Bernardino, accompanied by their friends, also newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Casey of Ontario, last Friday and there were made "one."

A brief honeymoon to Los Angeles and the beaches and the young couple returned to Cucamonga, where they will make their home, starting in at house-keeping in one of the Roberts' bungalow cottages in Feron St.

Narrow Escape in Auto Accident—Miss Lena Davis, sister of V. S. Davis of the Santa Fe Garage, had a narrow escape Monday evening from severe injury. When driving her Ford, accompanied by her two small brothers, she, with rare presence of mind when she saw collision was inevitable, attempted to dodge a big milk-truck which was just leaving the premises of the V. G. Lucas home in Archibald Avenue by turning to the left onto the crossing bridge into the Lucas Ranching Company yards. She failed, however, to make the turn and landed in the ditch beside the road. The children were apparently unhurt, but Miss Davis received the full shock of the crash, being considerably bruised and cut about the face. The car was quite badly damaged, losing the wheels and having the radiator crushed. The driver of the truck appeared to be at fault in driving too fast when turning out on to a public thoroughfare.

School Children Picnic

"Park Day" was celebrated in merry fashion by Alta Loma school children, following the regular morning study routine Wednesday, teachers and scholars driving to the parks, Misses Marian Belden and Sylvia Baumgartner chaperoning the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grades on a picnic outing to Fairmount Park, Riverside, and Miss Marjory Emerson and Mrs. Marguerite Hill the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th grades to Ganesha Park, where games, swimming and a bountiful picnic lunch completed the pleasures of the day's outing. Accompanying the youngsters and their teachers to Ganesha Park were Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Stoebe, Mr. and Mrs. John Blair and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Habegger.

Complimentary Shower

Some fifty invited guests assembled Saturday evening at the Axley home in Archibald Avenue to share in a happy affair given by Mrs. W. C. Axley, Miss Helen Todd and Miss Louise Carman in honor of the newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Kessler (Marie Axley) of 316 East D Street, Ontario. The bride's brother, Harvey Axley, and his bride (Mildred Moore) who were married the day previous, arrived from Los Angeles to share in the honors and participate in the festivities, as did also Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Nelson (Edna Todd), a cousin of Harvey Axley and Mrs. Kessler. Present also from Ontario were their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Casey, who were married several weeks ago. Games, dancing and dainty refreshments of ice cream and wafers, with fruit punch served throughout the evening, rounded out a very delightful time for all present. The young honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Kessler, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Axley, Jr., received many pretty and useful gifts from their relatives and friends gathered to congratulate them.

Victorville Rodeo Is Saturday and Sunday

Plans for the entertainment of 10,000 persons have been completed here by the Legion and other civic bodies in preparation for the fourth annual American Legion Rodeo to be held at Victorville next Saturday and Sunday afternoons, May 30 and 31. Already the town is beginning to fill with riders and ropers, while the auto camp is packed with tourists of the National Old Trail stopping over to see the two-day program of western sports.

The program includes bull-riding, calf roping, trick riding, cowgirls' pony express relay, bulldogging, clown stunts, championship bronco riding, Roman races, lady trick riding, and kindred features. Judges for the day have been named as follows: Buford Wright, John Talmadge and William Shay, with Jack Hoxie, film star, as honorary judge.

One of the latest groups of riders to enter consists of seven cowboys from Yucca, Arizona, who, through Art Heath, big cattle man, declare that the honors will go back with them to California's neighboring state.

CITRUS CULTURE CLASSES ATTRACT EASTERN FOLKS

That students in eastern states are anxious to avail themselves of the opportunity to study subtropical horticulture in California where this important field has reached its highest development is indicated by the inquiries concerning the 1925 summer session in subtropical horticulture to be held at Riverside. To date requests for information have been received from Florida, New York, Arizona and several of the middle western states.

In the 1924 session there were enrolled five students from Texas, three from Arizona, and several from foreign countries.

LION HUNTER CUTS ANOTHER NOTCH

J. O. Bruce, state lion hunter and picturesque woodsman, has cut several notches in his gun since he has been in Southern California. In his first hunt in Southern California, Bruce killed a 141-pound lion in the Seven Oaks country after a three-day hunt in which his five faithful foxhounds tracked the lion through a terrific rain and thunder storm, finally treeing it. Bruce killed the animal with a revolver.

Campaign to Save Deer

Bruce has been assigned to hunt in the San Bernardino mountains by the State Fish and Game Commission in the campaign to exterminate lions and save the deer in the reserves. "It's a never-ending struggle for the deer against extermination by lions," said Bruce on his return to the city with the skin of his prey.

"Lions, however, are not plentiful as the average person believes," the hunter said. "In a country where lions are plentiful there is an average of one lion to every 35 square miles. This is considered high by lion hunters."

Lion Kills 50 Deer Yearly

"But each lion, it has been conservatively estimated, kills 50 deer a year and costs the state approximately $1,000. The lion is the most cunning animal in the forests. He travels a definite radius of between 25 and 30 miles, covering the same 'beat' or run, as it is known to hunters, once in every four or five days. The lion is only killed when he is trapped. Perhaps once in a lifetime a hunter gets a shot at a mountain lion in the open."

And Bruce discounts wild and vivid stories of experiences of campers and hunters with mountain lions.

Lions Never Attack Humans

"The lion never attacks a human," Bruce said. "Of all the wild reports of lions attacking humans, investigation by the University of California in its study of the lion, and by hunters, only one actual case of a human being attacked by a lion is authentic and known. That was in Canada last year when an old lion, too old to prey on animal life, killed a 12-year-old boy. A hungry lion might attack an unprotected child, but even this is doubtful."

"Stories of hunters and sportsmen in the mountains seeing mountain lions are exaggerated if not absolutely false. I do not mean that the hunter or man in the woods did not think he saw a lion. But I doubt if he did."

Saw But One Lion in "Open"

"In my years of lion hunting, I killed 228 lions, and I walked 20,000 miles in the woods before I saw a solitary lion in the open, and he was a 30-pound 'kitten' in a playful mood. All the lions I ever saw alive were treed by dogs first. I lived in a mountain country as a boy and when I started lion hunting I killed 31 lions around my home, but I never saw a lion before he was treed or trapped. I saw lots of tracks, but no lions."

"The lion's very existence depends on his ability to stalk and kill the wariest animal in the forests—the deer. By instinct, the lion lives because of his trickery and skill in concealing himself from the sharp-eyed and alert animals of the wood."

"The lion is rarely, if ever, seen by humans. He hunts at night and sleeps by day."

Famed as Killer of Lions—Bruce is one of the most famed lion hunters in the country and, perhaps, the ranking authority on lions and their habits. He killed 227 lions north of the Tehachapi mountains in six years. He hunts with his pack of five foxhounds, each of which he values at $2,500. The hounds take up the track of the lion and stay on the trail until the lion is forced into a tree. Bruce, able to keep up with his dogs because of his remarkable stamina, then kills the lion with his revolver.

The reward of the hounds for treeing the lion is a juicy piece of his flank, skinned before the animal is cold. "I always feed my dogs warm lion's meat," Bruce said. "It's their bit for the job."

On the chase, the dogs are fed a prepared dog food.

Carries Moving Picture Camera—Bruce carries a light moving picture camera and is filming animal life in the California forests. He travels, when not on the hunt, in an automobile equipped with kennels for his valuable hounds. The long hunts are severe on the hounds and they are given rests between hunts. Bruce has lost but one hound, this dog plunging over a 300-foot ledge in the Big Creek country in the north when he hunger at a fleeing lion.

Lions are found only in country ranging from an elevation of 3,500 to 7,500 feet, Bruce said. "Campers," said Bruce, "need have no fear of mountain lions. And they should remember that dogs a little distance away in the mountains look like 'lions.'"

TULSA CHANTERS TO GIVE PROGRAM

A musical treat is in store for all who attend the vocal and instrumental concert to be given at the Pomona High School auditorium on East Holt Avenue, Pomona, at eight o'clock Monday evening, June 1, by the Shrine Chanters of Akdar Temple, Tulsa, Okla.

This concert is being given under the auspices of the Pomona Valley Shrine Club and is free to the public of the valley, a cordial invitation being extended to all.

The Chanters of Akdar Temple include 16 Tulsa Nobles who give a splendid and diversified program of choruses and solos, there being several talented soloists in the aggregation.

Accompanying the Chanters is little Miss Dorothy Naylor, a daughter of one of the singers who is known in her native state as an 11-year-old piano prodigy. This little lady who played before Paderewski in Oklahoma City several years ago and received his commendation at the time, will render several solos as well as act as accompanist to the Chanters. At the present time she is a student in the music department of the University of Tulsa where she is distinguishing herself as a piano student.

The Akdar Shrine Chanters have the reputation of being one of the best ensemble singing organizations in the state, and have made numerous appearances in different Oklahoma cities. It is their annual custom to sing for all of the hospitals in Tulsa at Christmas and Easter time. In addition to this, a sacred concert is given at each Tulsa church once a year.

The Chanters are making the trip to Los Angeles to attend the 51st annual Imperial Council Session of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of North America, and are accompanying 75 other Nobles who compose the Arab Patrol and Band of the Akdar Temple. This temple, with scores of other Shrine Temples from different parts of the United States, will be guests of the Pomona Valley Shrine Club on Wednesday and Thursday, June 3 and 4, on the "Trip Thru Orange-land." The Pomona Valley Shrine Club is composed of Nobles residing in Pomona, Ontario, Upland, Chino, Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne.

Laguna Art Exhibit Now at Pomona Col.

The exhibition of paintings by the Laguna Beach Art Association recently shown at Stanford University, with many additions, is now at Pomona College, and 54 glowing canvases will be open to the general public from 3:30 to 7:30 from last Wednesday afternoon to June 24.

As the opening event Mrs. Hannah Tempest Jenkins, formerly head of the Art Department at Pomona College, gave a gallery talk in Rembrandt Hall at 4:30. Mrs. George M. Turner, president of the Rembrandt Club, presided, and ladies of the Rembrandt Club served tea.

In addition to the 25 pictures which have been on exhibition at Stanford University for the past month, William A. Griffith, noted California artist, has brought up from Laguna 29 additional pictures which are hung in the Women's Club rooms of Sumner Hall.

The exhibition as a whole shows American landscape art at its best and especially exhibits the skill of California artists in depicting the glories of their own mountains, deserts and seashore. Notable among these are several pictures by Miss Anna A. Hills, president of the Laguna Beach Art Association, and William A. Griffith, and scattering individual canvases by Karl Yens, Norman Chamberlain, Edgar Payne, William Wendt and R. Clarkson Coleman. There are in addition several very effective portraits by Clarence K. Hinkle.

The exhibition will be open to the public every afternoon during the week from 3:30 until 6:00, and on Saturdays and Sundays from 2:30 until 5:30. The Rembrandt Club, the Claremont Woman's Club, the Faculty Wives' Club and the Art Department are co-operating to act as hosts and to serve tea for the visitors.

Besides the gallery talk given by Mrs. Jenkins there will be a talk by William A. Griffith on Wednesday afternoon, June 3, and a talk by Professor Kaminski on Friday afternoon, June 12.

ONTARIO

Memorial Program

Memorial Day furnished the motif for the program before the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club at Hotel Casa Blanca yesterday. Featured by a large bust of Lincoln, the dining room had been attractively decorated for the occasion in the national colors under the direction of R. F. Price and Howard R. Berg. The Rev. John B. Toomay served as program chairman.

E. H. Richardson, son of a Civil War veteran, gave a splendid talk on "Our Inheritance," in which he dwelt on the privilege of living in the present age, of living in Southern California and of being a Rotarian. Mr. Richardson also emphasized the importance of the service club movement, declaring that "life is measured by what we accomplish and by the good we do" and that in "dying we take with us only the things which we have given away."

Wellington A. Freeman read the well-known poem, "In Flanders Field," and R. F. Price gave Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. A quartet numbering Miss Margaret Paxson, Miss Hilda Johnston, Milo Vickery and Dr. Harry W. Frederickson, under the leadership of and accompanied by S. Earle Blakeslee, sang Kipling's "Recessional."

Merton E. Hill, principal of Chaffey High School and Junior College and member of the Upland Rotary Club, gave a splendid address on Abraham Lincoln, in which he pointed out that every boy and girl today has an equal opportunity to rise to the heights of the Emancipator. Mr. Hill stressed the importance of guarding the constitution of the United States and declared that the real soldier is he who works earnestly to hold his country together in peace as well as in war times. He dwelt at some length on the ideals of Lincoln.

Mr. Hill introduced Major P. J. Potts of Upland, who took part in the second battle of Bull Run and the battle of Gettysburg.

Household Terrorized

Ontario police were today called upon to investigate mysterious night attacks during the past week on the ranch home of Mrs. W. C. Lookingbill, 250 South Benson Avenue.

Mrs. Lookingbill reported that on Monday night her place was attacked by two men, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a revolver and that several shots were fired. On one occasion, when Motor Officer Wm. Hammond responded to a call from the Lookingbill house, he was greeted with a volley of revolver shots fired by Mrs. Lookingbill, who explained afterwards that the officer's headlights had revealed two men sitting across the street. Search by the officer failed to reveal anything.

Similar attacks are said to have been made on the same place six months ago and Mrs. Lookingbill is unable to explain them.

Announcement Test

The ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion H. Claypool, 512 East Francis street, was the scene of an interesting affair Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Claypool was hostess to a charming group of young women at a delightfully informal tea at which the approaching marriage of her attractive daughter, Miss Ethel June Claypool, to H. Leslie Cook was announced for June 16 at the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

The guests assembled for the affair on the broad verandas of the ranch home. An orchid and green color motif was used effectively in decoration, choice spring blossoms being artistically combined with fernery.

Present for the interesting affair were Miss Ethel June Claypool, Miss Robin Ruth Seitter, Miss Lyra Smith, Miss Eva Sharpe, Miss Olive Sharpe, Miss Thelma Longmire, Miss Franklin White, Miss Akhea Barnes, Miss Hazel Gimby, Miss Lois Howell, Miss Reta Rue Pursell, Miss Marion Hill, Miss Marion Claypool, Mrs. Elno C. Steiner, Mrs. S. L. Lamb, Mrs. Vincent B. Claypool and Mrs. Marion H. Claypool.

LEGION NOTES

Regular meeting of the Post will be held Tuesday evening, June 2. This is an important meeting and all members should attend. Regular meeting of the Auxiliary will be held Thursday evening, June 4.

Members will please assist the merchants of the city in getting their flags out on May 30th.

It has been suggested that the merchants put out their flags on the 3rd and 4th of June as the Shrine will be coming through our city in automobiles on these dates and it will be a good boost.

Ladies of the Auxiliary are selling poppies today. Be sure and spend a dime or more with them as this goes to the Orphan Fund.

Chairman H. C. Moore of the Endowment Fund Committee reports that over half our quota is in. Below you will note what Lindsay did.

Decoration Day is the day we decorate the graves of our Buddies who have gone ahead, so let each member assist in this work. Comrade Ashby Powell has charge of the firing squad, as usual. Adj. Alfred Ledig is chairman of the decoration and grave marker committee, and any assistance you may offer him will be greatly appreciated.

In another column you will note the program for the day. All members please report at the club house not later than 9 a.m., or at C and Euclid, Ontario, at 9:15, in uniform if possible, to parade to the Chaffey Union High School.

Lindsay Post Establishes Record

Lindsay today established a record for speed in raising her Legion Endowment Fund. The campaign officially was scheduled to start with the blowing of the noon whistle preceded by five minutes of church bell tolling all over the city, and when the quota was reached any time during the three days of the drive, it was understood the firebell was to be rung.

At 11:55 today the church bells tolled out their remembrance of the departed veterans. At 12 sharp the whistle blew. When the tolling of the bells started at 11:55 Campaign Treasurer R. E. Wolf was sitting at his desk with a pile of checks before him and the totals of money voluntarily sent in in response to letters previously sent out by Chairman Chester Dowell. Hastily totaling the amounts of checks that had been received in the morning mail, he noted to his delight that the quota figure had already been reached, with hundreds yet to be solicited by the committee. Just then the whistle blew announcing the opening of the campaign. Jumping from his chair, Wolf ran the block to the fire bell in almost nothing flat, and in just that length of time, the matter of but a few seconds, Lindsay learned that already she had reached her objective with soliciting still in progress this afternoon. Lindsay will probably double her quota before tonight.

Last Call on Insurance For Disabled Men

Disabled men who have allowed their government insurance to lapse must act quickly if they wish to safeguard their own rights and insure protection for their dependents.

Reinstatement of insurance, under Section 304 of the World War Veterans Act of 1924, must be made within one year after June 7, 1924, or within two years after the date of lapse or cancellation. No reinstatement of yearly renewable term insurance can be made after July 2, 1926.

In most cases reinstatement under the provisions of Section 304 will not be possible after June 7, 1925.

Every disabled man, therefore, in justice to those dependent on him, should ascertain the status of his own insurance rights immediately.

The disabled man suffering from an injury or disease contracted in service or aggravated by service may have his insurance reinstated by the payment of all premiums in arrears on the amount of insurance to be reinstated, together with interest at five percent, computed annually from the due date of each premium. Reinstatement may be in the full amount formerly carried or in part in multiples of $500, but no policy may be for less than $1,000. This reinstatement right is not available to men totally and permanently disabled.

The remittance must be accompanied by an application for reinstatement, Form 742 for term insurance or Form 807 for converted insurance. The first page of the form should be completed and signed by the disabled man himself. The report of medical examination, which is a part of the application, should be completed by a physician licensed to practice medicine.

On request the Veterans Bureau will compute the exact amount of premiums with interest necessary.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' WORK CAMPAIGN

Heights, and will furnish a retreat for those who cannot make the more strenuous mountain hikes. The board members hope that it will give opportunities for practical lessons in home duties and service.

In all these activities the aim is ever to create a love of out-of-doors; ideals of service; generosity in friendship; care for health; and ideals of wholesome living and sterling character.

Lex Lucas Leads Boys' Work. Though but recently employed to fill a vacancy in the boys' leadership Lex Lucas, who returns to Upland after some years in college and training, is making rapid advance in the boys' work.

In the emphasis given to developing the work among young men and employed boys last year, the secretary did not find time to push the program in Upland. Already, however, Mr. Lucas is building on the previous work.

Victor Anderson is the leader of Scout troop for the Mexican boy, which meets at the Sierra Vista school, and is doing splendid work. Another troop that is making a record is the one led by Peter Guthrie at the Tenth Street building.

The Pioneer classes in the Sunday School are carrying on a splendid program of boys' work.

At Chaffey Union High School boys' activities have been carried on during the year, and Mr. Lucas will join with the leaders there in planning the work of another year.

Mountain Camp for Scouts

For the summer months camps are being arranged for in the San Bernardino Mountains, where Mr. Lucas will be associated with the Scout Executive from Pomona in the leadership.

An unequalled lease has been secured for the government for the camp site, where a permanent supply of water is available, and where there is seclusion, and ample room for the activities that boys enjoy.

The Barrett Canyon camp is in use for week-end trips throughout the school year and serves an important need, since it is convenient and easily accessible.

Improvements at Upland Building. Many citizens have expressed the wish that the Y. M. C. A. building on Third Avenue might be used more, and there has been included an appropriation in the budget for repairs on equipment, and to provide a part-time assistant who may direct activities there. If the entire budget be raised next week, it will guarantee that the building may be opened to the boys and young men of the community at this way.

Upland Banks Depositories of Funds

The Upland banks will act as depositories for the funds given by the citizens, and W. B. Galentine has been named treasurer of the campaign committee. Funds pledged and paid to year are to be distributed in equal shares between the work for boys, and that for girls, and are solicited with the understanding that payments made are to support the work at home in Upland.

Welfare Work Shares in the Funds

The Welfare Committee, which does so much splendid service in caring for the needy in Upland, will share in the funds raised in this campaign. Under the direction of Mrs. G. A. Hanson and other workers the Welfare Committee has met every emergency, largely through voluntary gifts in time of need. However, to avoid any financial campaign for this worthy work, the modest sum of $250 has been included in the campaign budget.

The last named sum, together with $2000 for girls' work and $2000 for boys' work, makes a total budget of $4,250 for the coming year.

Ontario has raised nearly double this sum for such work, and has employed a full-time secretary at the Y. M. C. building. It is hoped that Upland, too, may meet the need, and that its budget may be met next week.

Headquarters at Upland Hotel

The Upland Hotel has been named headquarters, and the Girls' Organization will serve dinner to the canvassers. The co-operation of the citizens that has marked past campaign will make possible the successful arduous close of the campaign next week.

The city has been districted by precincts, and a number of citizens will give their valuable time to the work on Friday and Saturday, June 3 and 6.

FLAG OBSERVANCES FOR MEMORIAL DAY

On Memorial Day the Flag should float at half staff until noon, and raised to full staff after noon.

When the Flag is worn as a badge it should be worn flat on the left breast.

When the Flag is used as a decoration it should, whenever possible, float from a staff.

The Flag should never be festooned nor draped. It should always hang flat.

When colors are required for decorations, red, white and blue bunting should be used.

The Flag should never be used to cover or decorate any kind of furniture or vehicle.
